Closing Remarks—

Linda C Bane

Linda was born in Keyser, WV, and graduated from Keyser High School in 1974. She earned an AA in pre-biology in 1976 from PSC and two BAs, in biology and in foreign languages (German), from WVU in 1978 and 1979 respectively. She was inducted into Tri-Beta, the biology honor society at WVU. Linda worked on a masters in German. She supported her studies as a GA (Graduate Assistant) teaching German, Latin, and English as a Foreign Language. She escaped to Japan before finishing her thesis and her degree.

In Tokyo, Linda worked as an English conversation teacher from 1982-89: first at the Berkeley House Language Center in Ichikawa and then at Azabu Academy in Roppongi. While in Japan, Linda became an avid sumo wrestling and Kabuki fan.

On her return from Tokyo, Linda enrolled in library school at the University of Maryland at College Park. In 1990 she received her MLS and joined the Mary F. Shipper Library at PSC, completing her metamorphosis which began as a library page at the Keyser-Mineral County Public Library and continued as a work-study student in the WVU Wise Library and the West Virginia History Collection.

At retirement she held the title of Assistant University Librarian. She taught library research each spring and in the past she taught orientation classes (WVUe). As an adjunct she taught classes in German, Introduction to the Internet, and Web Page Design. She has advised the Anime Club and the Japanese Club and currently is the advisor of the PSC Book Worms, Sip & Stitch, and the Japanese Club.

While working at PSC, Linda continued to take classes: speech, computer programming, anthropology, leadership, and more. While working she completed the course work for an online MA at WVU in instructional design and technology, and received the MA in December 2018. She hopes in the future to complete a doctorate in instructional design and technology.

Linda's family members include two cats: Ani-chan and Ototo-chan. She has a brother and sister-in-law in North Carolina as well as lots of cousins, aunts, and uncles. Her hobbies and interests include: books, movies, sewing, quilting, crocheting, knitting, current events, technology and video, computer, and card games, and Pokemon Go. If you see her wandering the streets at night, she's probably catching pokemon.

Dr. Charles A Julian

“Chuck” was born in Wheeling, WV. In 1975 he received an AB in Education/English, 7-12-School Library Media, K-12 from Glenville State College; in 1978 he received a Masters in Information Studies (Social Sciences) from the University of Sheffield, England; in 1979 he received a Masters in Library Science from George Peabody College/Vanderbilt University; and in 1990 he received a PhD in Library Science from Florida State University.

His previous work experience includes: Director of Library and Assistant Professor of Library Science-University at Martin; Manager, Knowledge-Based Services/Intellectual Property-National Technology Transfer Center, Wheeling Jesuit University; Director of Library Services/Distance Education-WV Northern CC; Public Services, Reference Librarian and Instructor in Library Science, Glenville State College; Cataloger/Reference Librarian, Parkersburg CC. He is the current Director of the Mary F. Shipper Library and the Associate University Librarian at Potomac State.

Chuck has been active in Rotary Clubs in Wheeling, Glenville, Martin, TN, and in Keyser, holding numerous offices over the years. He is a member of the WV Library Commission-Gubernatorial Appointee, the WV Library Association-multiple offices including President, past board member of the Friends of Wheeling, and a life member of the American Library Association.

He received the Rotary Club of Martin, Presidential Service Award in 2014-15, the Rotary International Graduate Fellowship; WV Library Association-Dora Ruth Parks Award; and the WV Library Commission—Resolution of Appreciation in 2013.

His hobbies include: researching local history, presenting historical narratives, and enjoying classical/symphonic music. Chuck is a confirmed bachelor.

“My career of 43+ years in library and information science has been an interesting and varied one. Most certainly technology has transformed the way in which information and resources are now used—not always positively. But the overarching joy throughout a career that always presents new challenges and opportunities, have been the occasions which I have interacted and worked with students—particularly when seeking information helps to spark the fires of knowledge.”

Susan J Slaubaugh

Susan grew up in Belle, WV and graduated from DuPont High School. She worked two years for the Department of Welfare/Staff Training in Charleston soon after graduation, then studied secretarial science at Ohio Valley College in Parkersburg for one year. Next came marriage to Cline Slaubaugh, two sons, and occasional work-from-home jobs over the years, including professional cake decorator and typing court hearings.

Susan joined the work force at Potomac State College in August 1986 in the Student Support Services office, a federally funded program. When the program was defunded in June 2011, she transitioned to the Business Office. While working she gradually completed her second year of classes and in 2003 received an AAS in Office Technology from Potomac State. She was chosen as the Outstanding Staff Person of the Year in 2016 and for 15 years was an active member of the PSC Classified Employees Council.

Susan and Cline have two sons and four grandchildren: Randy, and children Tyler and Tierra who live in Wooster, Ohio; Shawn and wife, Marla, with children Dylan and Brooke live in Buffalo, WV.

Susan is a member of the Keyser church of Christ. Her hobbies include: reading, gardening, crafts, karaoke, Bible study and grading Bible correspondence course lessons.
